2011 Spring Turkey Season

The fifth annual spring turkey youth hunt will be held April 9-10, the weekend prior to the opening Wednesday of the first time period of the regular spring turkey season.

Thanks to the new mentored hunting law, the spring turkey youth hunt will be open to youth 10-15 years of age, both residents and non-residents, with or without a Hunter Education Certificate of Accomplishment. There are special rules and regulations for those participating in the Mentored Hunting Program, and interested hunters should carefully review these rules prior to heading out to the field. You can follow the links above to find out more.

A spring turkey license, stamp, and a valid permit (carcass tag) are required to hunt during the Spring Turkey Youth Hunt. All other existing rules and regulations in regard to turkey hunting seasons, hours of hunting, bag limits and more apply. See the 2010 Wisconsin Small Game Hunting Regulations pamphlet, which includes the 2011 Spring Turkey Hunting Regulations, for details. Interested participants in the Spring Turkey Youth Hunt should apply for a spring turkey permit by the December 10th deadline. Applications cost $3 and may be purchased at all authorized license agents, through the Online Licensing Center on the DNR website, at Wisconsin DNR Service Centers, or by calling toll-free 1-888-WDNRINFO (1-888-936-7460), or by contacting a local DNR Service Center.

The bear drawing is held each year in early February. Drawing winners will be notified via U.S. Mail shortly after the drawing. Drawing winners may purchase their 2011 Class A bear license beginning March 9, the start of the 2011 license year.

Total permit availability for the 2011 black bear season has not yet been determined. Proposed quota and permit levels will be taken up by the state Natural Resources Board at its January meeting. FOR MORE INFORMATION: on spring turkey contact, Krissi McKinsey, (608) 264-8683; on bear contact, Linda Oliver, (608) 261-7558.

Applications postmarked after the December 10th deadline, or filled out incorrectly, will not be considered for the drawings.

Planning Ahead! 2011 Spring Turkey Season

Spring Turkey Season officially begins with the April 9-10 Spring Turkey Youth Hunt. The regular turkey season begins on April 13 and runs through November 27. Spring turkey permits will be printed at the time of purchase. Permits remaining after the initial drawing for the 2011 spring turkey season will be issued for sale one-per-day on a first-come, first-served basis in late March, at a date to be specified later.

2011 Black Bear Season

The 2011 Black Bear Season begins Sept. 7, the first Wednesday after Labor Day, and runs through Oct. 11. The opening week of Wisconsin’s bear hunting season alternates – allowing those who hunt over bait in one first-year zone and those who hunt with the aid of dogs to go first the next year. In 2011, hunters who use the aid of dogs will go first in those management areas open to hunting with dogs; the season for those hunting over bait and or using other methods will open Sept. 14. In Zone C, where hunting with dogs is prohibited, hunters may hunt bear over bait or by other means not using dogs from Sept. 7 through Oct. 11.

Preliminary harvest figures indicate bear hunters harvested 4,969 black bears in Wisconsin during the 2010 bear season. There were 33,930 hunters who submitted applications for the 8,940 Class A bear harvest permits available for the 2010 bear season. A total of 97,467 hunters applied for either a harvest permit or a preference point in 2010.

Applicants currently need to have collected between four and ten preference points in order to successfully draw a bear harvest permit. Hunters can check their preference point status in one of three ways: by visiting the online licensing center, by calling Customer Service & Licensing toll-free at 1-888-WDNRINFO (1-888-936-7460), or by contacting a local DNR Service Center.

The bear drawing is held each year in early February. Drawing winners will be notified via U.S. Mail shortly after the drawing. Drawing winners may purchase their 2011 Class A bear license beginning March 9, the start of the 2011 license year.

Total permit availability for the 2011 black bear season has not yet been determined. Proposed quota and permit levels will be taken up by the state Natural Resources Board at its January meeting. President’s Report

Vol. II Part VII

I hope you all enjoyed a great tra- ditional deer season this year as well as a Happy Thanksgiving. Over the next couple weeks, the DNR will be totaling harvest numbers and it will be interesting to see the results. For years, Wisconsin Deer Hunter’s have been in the national top ten deer harvested list. Although Wisconsin consistently produces record book quality bucks back after back state wide. We members must continue to teach our young hunters the impor tance of the tradition of deer hunting and put more emphasis in quality time with friends and family and skiing or hiking the winter wonderland at night with our best! Join the Friends of Point Beach State Park for a wonderful evening 6-8 p.m.

G overnment and academic scientists on a multi-week exploration to deeper parts of the continental shelf in the Gulf of Mexico. The expedition is sponsored by the Naional Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration’s Office of Ocean Energy Management, Regulation and Enforcement (BOEMRE). The expedition is funded by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

On August 3, 2010, the American Bird Conservancy and a number of nonprofit organizations, including BOEMRE, the National Audubon Society of New York State, the Nature Conservancy, the Sierra Club, and Audubon of the Capital District, petitioned the Environmental Protection Agency
(EPA) to list lead as a pollutant that must be regulated under the Clean Water Act (CWA) and enforce the pollution control provisions of the National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES). This petition was based on the recent findings of the Office of the Science Advisor (OSA) at the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) indicating that lead pollution is a serious threat to the nation’s mussels and other benthic organisms and that lead in the marine environment is a considerable public health concern.

The petition also notes that lead is utilized in a variety of consumer products and is found in the marine environment through discharge, erosion, and atmospheric deposition. Lead is highly toxic to vertebrates and has negative health effects at very low concentrations;
lead is particularly toxic to birds, fishes, and marine mammals and creatures that are exposed to lead in high concentrations, such as birds of prey and marine mammals.

The petition also calls for EPA and BOEMRE to cooperate on addressing the lead problem in the Northwest Gulf of Mexico, which is the primary source of lead in the Northwest Gulf of Mexico.

The petition was also supported by the National Marine Fisheries Service and NOAA’s Office of Migratory Bird Management and Conservation.

The petition argues that lead pollution is a serious threat to the nation’s mussels and other
benthic organisms and that lead in
the marine environment is a considerable public health concern.

In response to the petition, BOEMRE and EPA are conducting a joint assessment of the lead pollution problem in the Northwest Gulf of Mexico and are working to develop strategies to address the issue.

The joint assessment includes an inventory of lead pollution sources in the Northwest Gulf of Mexico and an evaluation of the potential impacts of lead pollution on marine organisms and human health.

The joint assessment also includes the development of a lead pollution mitigation plan for the Northwest Gulf of Mexico, which will be presented to the National Marine Fisheries Service and NOAA’s Office of Migratory Bird Management and Conservation for review.

The joint assessment is expected to be completed by the end of 2011, and the lead pollution mitigation plan will be implemented

as soon as possible.

Florida Businessman Pleads Guilty to Illegal Trade in Elephant Ivory

WASHINGTON - Joseph Barringer, 55, the owner of a pool cue company, pleaded guilty in federal court in Orlando to violating the Endangered Species Act in connection with the illegal export of African elephant ivory through an online auction site.

Barringer, the owner of Cue Components, located in New Smyrna Beach, Florida, was arrested for shipping 197 pounds of elephant ivory, and pieces of ivory, to an undercover officer of the London Metropolitan Police (Scott-land Yard), who was working in coordination with the Fish and Wildlife Service and the U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement.

A search warrant was executed at the offices of Cue Components and the defendant’s home. Federal agents seized 197 pounds of elephant ivory and cut ivory pieces, according to documents filed in court, including 24 elephant tusk tips.

Agents also seized more than 1,900 Cuban cigars which are considered smuggling because they are prohibited in the U.S. and have been brought into the country via clandestine means.

According to the plea agreement, the defendant could face a Jail senlash which whether or not the ivory was ilegally smuggling into the United States, the defendant could face a Jail sen-

ABOUT THE ARTIST

Born in 1959 in Columbus, Wisconsin, Scott comes from a long line of artists and outdoorsmen. His father was an avid sportsman, taking Scott hunting whenever possible. Scott’s mother was a fine artist, studying art at the American Academy of Art in Chicago. “As I grew older, I noticed, instead of shooting ducks I enjoyed photographing and drawing wildlife, so I sat at the blind with my Dad.”

He spent his youth exploring the outdoors at his family’s home which was surrounded by woods and wildlife. He spent weekends and summers at the family cottage on Lake Koshkonong near Edgerton.

Scott’s high school art teacher encouraged him to pursue art and introduced him to one of her past students, local wildlife artist Terrill Knaack. “It was a great opportunity to receive his council and advice.”

Scott went on to complete a BFA in Graphic Design from the University of Utah. Midway through his career in the graphic arts and printing industry, he decided to return to what he loved most, painting wildlife. He has studied with internationally known wildlife artists Terry Isaac, and Lee Kromschroeder.

Today, Scott lives on the same family farm where he and his pregnant wife raise a child. This land is also where he finds inspiration for all his current paintings. “I enjoy catching those fleeting moments that you will never experience again.”
