Sportsmen’s Groups Oppose Bill Removing Wetlands Protection

Legislation has been proposed that removes DNR’s permit authority for the protection of over one million acres of non-federally protected wetlands in Wisconsin. In 2001 the Wisconsin Legislature with overwhelming support from sportsmen and women and other Wisconsin citizens unanimously enacted legislation requiring DNR review and permitting before non-federally protected wetlands could be filled.

A large proportion of these wetlands are high quality and provide valuable fish and wildlife habitat throughout the state of Wisconsin. These wetlands are critical habitat for waterfowl, furbearers, pheasants and other game, nongame and endangered species. In addition these nonfederal wetlands often form the headwaters of Wisconsin’s streams including Wisconsin’s prized trout waters.

Non-federally protected wetlands serve other important ecosystem roles, such as filtering pollutants from getting into Wisconsin lakes and streams and providing valuable flood storage thereby reducing flood damage to public and private property during storm events.

The proposed bill is extremely damaging to the hunting, fishing and trapping community and the above sportsmen’s organizations call on the Legislature to engage sportsmen and women, other stakeholders and the Department of Natural Resources prior to developing legislation affecting Wisconsin’s valuable wetlands. The groups stand ready to assist in the development of legislation dealing with specific wetland regulatory problems but remain steadfast to protecting Wisconsin’s valuable nonfederal wetlands.
